

Anticipation Guide

For Mississippi Trial, 1955 by Chris Crowe

Directions: Before reading Mississippi Trial, 1955, complete the following worksheet. In the blanks underneath the word “You” draw a ☺ if you agree with the statement or a ☹ if you do not agree. Draw a question mark if you are unsure, or your opinion lies somewhere in the middle. At the end of the unit, we will fill in the blanks underneath the word “Author.”

You	Author
___	___	Race determines a person's value in society.
___	___	If a law is wrong, it is all right to disobey it.
___	___	All people are created equal.
___	___	No matter race, religion or gender, citizens are all treated fairly in our courts of law.
___	___	No one is 100% bad or 100% good.
___	___	Words are dangerous.
___	___	A person who uses incorrect grammar is not educated.
___	___	Some words are so offensive they shouldn't be used.
___	___	One should stand up for what's right, no matter the consequences.